Greeks, Need Help With Academics?

What is the Office of Academic Development? What can they do?

The Office of Academic Development at High Point University is dedicated to helping students improve their academic performance. The Office of Academic Development coordinates and provides assistance in areas of academic performance related to academic and life skills with specific reference to exam preparation, testing strategies, test anxiety, reading, note taking skills, time and stress management and other areas requested by students. It provides academic counseling for any student having academic difficulty and provides advising support to all students and faculty advisors.
