Course DiscontinuationPlease describe the rationale for discontinuing this course

ATR 1150 Health and Nutrition has not been taught for over 10 years. It is not part of any academic major, minor, nor is it affiliated with the general education curriculum. The course has not been in the hard copy of the undergraduate bulletin but we discovered it still exists online in Student Planning. To avoid any confusion for students we are requesting that it be formally discontinued and removed from the online system.
