

IS THE Think BIG GRANT THE RIGHT GRANT FOR YOU?

What is your primary goal?

My project is primarily focused on developing a learning experience for students or enhancing my teaching or teaching approach

My project is primarily focused on developing a research program or enhancing my research agenda

Do you want to integrate service-learning into your teaching?

Do you want to develop your scholarship about teaching?

Do you want to focus on developing students' emotional intelligence?

Do you want to implement an innovative teaching project that impacts a large number of students?

The Think Big Grant is NOT the right avenue, but the Silvershein/Gutenstein Family Grants ($2000) prepare faculty to teach service-learning courses. Contact the HPU Center for Community Engagement.

The Think Big Grant is NOT the right avenue, but grants may become available from the Center for Innovative Teaching and Learning (CITL).

The Think Big Grant may NOT be the right avenue, but the Quality Enhancement Plan (QEP) may offer QEP grants to apply for.

YES! The Think Big Grant might be the right avenue. Guidelines available at highpoint.edu/thinkbig/

The Think Big Grant is NOT the right avenue to develop or support a research project or agenda. Please consider reaching out to the University Research and Sponsored Programs (RASP) Office to seek external grants.